

Please be very cautious before allowing digital signals to transmit via power lines. After many years working in broadcasting, and using both commercial and amateur radios, signals carried accidentally via power lines have caused so much havoc, to deliberately place them on lines I feel certain will cause interference to many systems.